INVITATION TO ATTEND

The University of the Sunshine Coast and its sponsors cordially invite you to the 1st Australian Biennial Conference on the Brain and Learning. Held in the beautiful city of Brisbane, this interdisciplinary conference focuses on improving the lives of young people by making cutting-edge research in neuroscience, psychology, education and health understandable and applicable to those who work with young people in multiple contexts on a daily basis.

With international and national speakers presenting insights into their work and research this inaugural conference will provide delegates with an opportunity to expand their own knowledge and understanding relating to Building Healthy Minds within their own professional practice.

The theme for the 1st Biennial Australian Conference on the Brain and Learning is Building Healthy Minds.

The program will explore the following broad topic areas:

- Contemporary insights into healthy brain development.
- Links between neuroscience and various disciplinary fields.
- Providing practical insights into improving the lives of young people.

We believe the stimulating and diverse program is sure to provide value and guidance to people working in psychology, counselling, social work, mental health, neuroscience, education and early childhood. The program has been specifically developed to provide you and your organisation with as much opportunity as possible to discuss the latest trends and developments with delegates drawn from around the country and internationally.

Yours sincerely,

Associate Professor Michael Nagel PhD
Organising Committee Chair

SPEAKERS

Professor Gary Small, USA

Gary Small, MD, is a professor of psychiatry and aging at UCLA, as well as the director of the UCLA Division of Geriatric Psychiatry and the UCLA Longevity Center. Small is co-inventor of the first brain imaging technology to detect the physical evidence of Alzheimer's disease in living people. His research has included the first direct studies of how new technology affects our brains as they age. In addition to testing medicines designed to treat or delay the onset of Alzheimer's, Dr. Small has developed healthy aging lifestyle and memory training programs that are available throughout the United States. Scientific American magazine named him one of the world's top innovators in science and technology. He has authored over 500 scientific works, as well as six popular books including The New York Times best-seller, The Memory Bible, and his latest book, The Alzheimer's Prevention Program.

Professor Tony Attwood, Australia

Tony is a clinical psychologist who has specialised in autism spectrum disorders since he qualified as a clinical psychologist in England in 1975. He works in private practice in Brisbane, but is also adjunct professor at Griffith University, Queensland. His book Asperger's Syndrome - A Guide for Parents and Professionals has sold over 350,000 copies and has been translated into over twenty languages. He has worked with over 6,000 individuals of all ages with Asperger's syndrome or an Autism Spectrum Disorder.

Tony presents workshops and runs training courses for parents, professionals and individuals with Asperger's syndrome all over the world and is a prolific author of scientific papers and books on the subject. His latest book The Complete Guide to Asperger's Syndrome was published in October 2006.

Dr Roberta Michnick Golinkoff, USA

Roberta Michnick Golinkoff, Ph.D., H. Rodney Sharp Professor of Education at the University of Delaware, has won the John Simon Guggenheim Fellowship, the James McKeen Cattell prize, the American Psychological Association's Award for Distinguished Service to Psychological Science, and the Urie Bronfenbrenner Lifetime Achievement Award. She recently won the Francis Alison Award, the highest honor at her University. Having written over 150 articles and 12 books including A Mandate for Playful Learning in Preschool (Oxford), she is an expert on language development and playful learning. Passionate about dissemination, she co-founded the Ultimate Block Party movement to celebrate the science behind play.

Professor Iroise Dumontheil, UK

Iroise Dumontheil is a Postdoctoral Research Fellow in developmental cognitive neuroscience at the Institute of Cognitive Neuroscience, University College London. She has run a series of research studies on the typical development of social cognition and cognitive control during adolescence. Iroise publishes novel research experiments which combine a variety of methods including functional and structural neuroimaging, behavioural assessments, and genetics, to study brain and cognitive development. Iroise is further interested in the potential implications of this neuroscience research for education.

Andrew Fuller, Australia

Andrew has recently been described as an “interesting mixture of Billy Connolly, Tim Winton and Frasier Crane” and as someone who “puts the heart back into psychology”. As a clinical psychologist, Andrew Fuller works with many schools and communities in Australia and internationally, specialising in the wellbeing of young people and their families. He is a Fellow of the Department of Psychiatry and the Department of Learning and Educational Development at the University of Melbourne.

Andrew has been a principal consultant to the national drug prevention strategy RED1, the ABC on children’s television shows, is an Ambassador for Mind Matters and is a member of the National Coalition Against Bullying.

Andrew has established programs for the promotion of mental health in schools, substance abuse prevention, and the reduction of violence and bullying, suicide prevention programs and for assisting homeless young people. Andrew continues to counsel young people.

Dr Kate Freiberg, Australia

Kate Freiberg is Senior Research Fellow and co-director of the Prevention and Developmental Pathways Program within the Key Centre for Ethics, Law, Justice and Governance at Griffith University. She is a developmental psychologist who has a broad interest in young children’s social and cognitive development and well-being. Her interest in the theory and practice of applying preventive interventions in community settings includes a particular focus on the effectiveness of home-school-community group partnerships in the promotion of positive outcomes for children.

Professor Ross Homel AO, Australia

Ross Homel, Foundation Professor of Criminology and Criminal Justice at Griffith University, is a specialist in prevention science. In May 2008 he was recognized as a ‘Queensland Great’ “for his contribution to Queensland’s reputation for research excellence, the development of social policy and justice reform and helping Queensland’s disadvantaged communities,” and in November 2010 received the American Society of Criminology Sellin-Glueck Award for criminological scholarship outside the United States.

Professor Brenda Happell, Australia

Brenda Happell is the Engaged Research Chair in Mental Health Nursing and Director of the Institute for Health and Social Science Research at CQUniversity Australia. Brenda is an active researcher with a strong track record in publication, supervising higher degree students and obtaining competitive research funding. She is the Editor of the International Journal of Mental Health Nursing. Her research interests include: consumer participation in mental health services, seclusion, the physical health of people experiencing mental illness and mental health nursing education. Brenda’s advocacy of consumer participation is best evidenced by her leadership role in introducing an academic position for a consumer of mental health services at the Centre for Psychiatric Nursing, University of Melbourne, and more recently at CQUniversity.

Associate Professor Felice Jacka, Australia

Felice Jacka is an NHMRC Research Fellow at Deakin University. She is responsible for the majority of the published studies worldwide concerning the association between diet quality and the common mental disorders, depression and anxiety, in children, adolescents and adults.

Dr Louise Porter PhD, MA(Hons), MGiftedEd, DipEd, BA, BIntStuds, Australia

Louise Porter is a child psychologist with 30 years' experience in private practice consulting with parents and practitioners about children's developmental and social or emotional challenges. Alongside this private work, she was also employed for 10 years in disability and mainstream settings and lectured at university in Adelaide for 13 years in topics relating to early childhood, special and gifted education, and behaviour management. Now in private practice in Brisbane and Hong Kong, she consults with parents and practitioners about children's developmental and social or emotional challenges. She has published widely, with her books including, Young children's behaviour, Student behaviour; Gifted young children, Teacher-parent collaboration and a parenting course, A guidance approach to discipline. She has also produced two DVDs, Guiding children's behaviour and Gifted children: Meeting their needs. (See www.louiseporter.com.au)
